ISSUE 22 — February 2002

In this issue:

- New CMR Handbook Launched
- Revised Community & Practice Nurse Guidelines
- NDC Module Training Days
- New faces

New CMR Handbook Launched

A new edition ( Edition 3) of the CMR Handbook was published and distributed to all practices in Dec 2001. Updated to take account of release 5 of GPASS, it also contains new and improved guidelines for all practices. We encourage you to make sure all relevant staff have seen and read it. It will be made available on the CMR Website by Feb 2002.

Revised sections of Community & Practice Nurse Guidelines

The revised sections (3-6) of the Community & Practice Nurse guidelines sent to the participating practices, will be available on the website by Feb 2002.

If your practice is involved in this data collection, but has not yet received the revised sections, please contact the Practice Team

Helpline to request your copy on : 0131 625 6242

NDC Module Training Days

We hope that you have managed to install the NDC Module in your practices and are starting to benefit from using it. If you do have any problems with installation please call the GPASS Helpdesk (0141 882 9998). If you have any problems with use of the Module or coding please call the Practice Team Helpline (0131 625 6242).

During the training day Gerry Mulvenna asked for feedback from practices on using the module. We would be very grateful if you could drop us a note or an e-mail (cmr@isd.csa.scot.nhs.uk) to let us know about:

- the general usability of NDC Module
- particular functions
- anything that might be changed or improved

If there are any practices collecting practice or community nurse data using the Community & Practice

Nurse Data Recording Guidelines that would like further information about the NDC Module please contact the Practice Team Helpline.

Module guidelines will be available on the website by Feb 2002.
