

Delayed Discharges in NHSScotland

Occupied Bed Days in April 2016 and Census Figures for May 2016

Publication Date – 21 June 2016

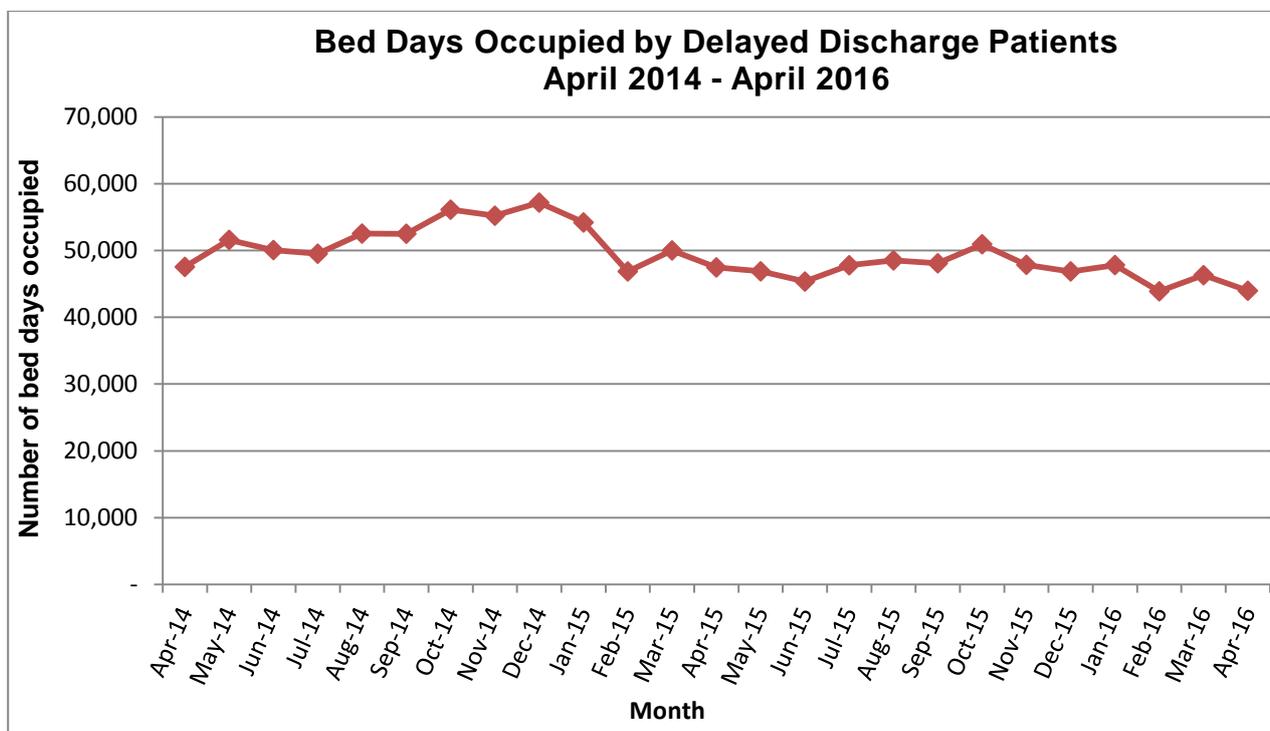

About this release

Information Services Division publish on a monthly basis the number of hospital bed days associated with delayed discharges for a full calendar month, and the number of patients classified as a delayed discharge at the monthly census point (currently the 15th of the month).

Main Points

Hospital bed days associated with delays in discharge in April 2016

- In April 2016, patients spent 43,980 days in hospital due to delays in discharge. This is a 5% decrease on the previous month and a 7% decrease on the same period last year.

Patients ready for discharge as at May 2016 census

- 1,123 patients were delayed at the May 2016 census. This is a 1% increase on April 2016.
- 335 of these delays (30%) were for patients with specific complex care needs.
- Of the remaining 788 patients delayed at the census:
 - 271(34%) were awaiting place availability in a care home
 - 205 (26%) were awaiting completion of social care arrangements for social care support to live in their own home – awaiting social support (e.g. carer).
 - 163 (21%) were awaiting completion of a post hospital social care assessment

Background

A delayed discharge is a hospital patient that is clinically ready for discharge from inpatient hospital care but continues to occupy a hospital bed beyond the ready for discharge date. Timely discharge from hospital is an important indicator of quality and is a marker for person centred, effective, integrated and harm free care.

Following work undertaken to improve data quality and reporting of delayed discharge information a revised data definitions manual and national data requirements will be effective from 1 July 2016. Please see News and Updates on the Delayed Discharges section of our website for more details.
