About this release

This release by Information Services Division (ISD) presents Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services (CAMHS) waiting times at 30 June 2019.

As previously advised CAMHS Inpatient Activity is no longer published as part of this publication. This information can be found in the Psychiatric Inpatient Activity publication. The next release will be 10 September 2019.

Main Points

- 4,010 children and young people started treatment at CAMHS in Scotland which is a decrease from the previous quarter (4,237) and from the same quarter ending June 2018 (4,694).

- Around seven out of ten (69.7%) children and young people were seen within 18 weeks, compared to 73.6% for the previous quarter and 67.5% for the quarter ending June 2018. The Scottish Government standard states that 90% of children and young people should start treatment within 18 weeks of referral to CAMHS.

- Half of the children and young people seen started their treatment within 12 weeks.

Percentage of patients seen by CAMHS within 18 weeks of referral, by quarter, NHSScotland.

Notes:

1. The points for quarter ending September 2017 and December 2017 includes data completeness issues. This is due to NHS Tayside not submitting data between 22 June 2017 to 31 October 2017.

- Across Scotland, around one in eight patients (12.2%) referred to CAMHS did not attend their first appointment which is an increase from the previous quarter (9.8%) and from the same quarter ending June 2018 (11.7%).

- 8,384 children and young people were referred to CAMHS in Scotland which is a decrease from the previous quarter (9,748) and the same quarter ending June 2018 (8,802).
Total Referrals by Quarter NHSScotland June 2015 - June 2019.

Background
The main function of CAMHS is to develop and deliver services for children and young people (and parents and carers) who are experiencing the most serious mental health problems. They also have an important role in supporting the mental health capacity of wider children's services. Delivery of good quality CAMHS depends on timely access to health care and adequate numbers of well trained staff being recruited and retained across NHSScotland.
