

Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service Benchmarking Toolkit

Data to 31 December 2016

Publication Date – 21 March 2017

About this release

The Information Services Division has released data up to 31 December 2016 in the Child and Adolescent Mental Health Service \(CAMHS\) Benchmarking Toolkit. The CAMHS benchmarking toolkit aims to support the implementation of the Child and Adolescent Mental Health policy using national data benchmarking of CAMH services across Scotland. The toolkit contains information on waiting times for CAMHS, workforce statistics, inpatient admissions and inpatient bed days.

This information helps to provide a balanced view of CAMH services in NHS Scotland, incorporating the aims of the Quality Strategy domains of Client/Patient Focus, Delivering Best Practice, Internal Processes and Best Use of Resources. It achieves this by taking a range of information on waiting times for young people receiving mental health services, the workforce employed to provide those services, hospital activity and several other contextual measures. The balanced scorecard comprises of a detailed set of data tables in the CAMHS toolkit and an interactive comparative dashboard.
