This release by Information Services Division (ISD) provides a monthly update on the number of patients in NHSScotland who have had their planned hospital operation cancelled and the reason for this cancellation.

Main points

- The total number of planned operations across NHSScotland during June 2018 was 28,258, a decrease of 4.5% from 29,601 during June 2017.

- 2,281 operations (8.1% of planned operations) were cancelled in June 2018, ranging from 4.7% to 12.9% across individual NHS Boards. This compares to 2,604 (8.8%) in June 2017.

- In June 2018, of all planned operations: 900 (3.2%) were cancelled by the patient; 895 (3.2%) were cancelled by the hospital based on clinical reasons; 403 (1.4%) were cancelled by the hospital due to capacity or non-clinical reasons; 83 (0.3%) were cancelled due to other reasons.

- The peak in cancellations for non-clinical/capacity reasons in January 2018 (4.5%) was linked to increased emergency admissions causing additional demand for beds. The spikes in March 2018 for non-clinical/capacity reasons (4.1%) and other reasons (1.5%) were due to poor weather affecting patient and staff travel.
